ENVIRONMENTAL AND OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH CERTIFICATE

Provides Specialized Training in Environmental and Occupational Health

ABOUT

The 15-Credit Environmental and Occupational Health Certificate can help you advance your knowledge and skills to address major environmental and occupational health issues facing public health professionals today. Courses explore principles of toxicology, sources of environmental agents, their distribution in various environments, risk assessment methods and workplace health hazards.

The Environmental and Occupational Health Certificate is intended for:

- Clinicians (physicians and nurses)
- Other clinical researchers
- Those working in pharmaceutical and related industries
- Those working in the environmental and occupational health field
- Those interested in learning about environmental and occupational health

PROGRAM DESIGN

You can complete the Environmental and Occupational Health Certificate in two to three semesters, or you can plan a schedule for completing the courses over a two-year period (maximum timeframe). The late afternoon/evening schedule makes it convenient to continue working or gain experience while earning your Environmental and Occupational Health Certificate.

Depending on the degree program and concentration, certificate courses may also be applied toward a degree at the Rutgers School of Public Health. Certificate holders must apply and be admitted to the degree program.

CURRICULUM REQUIREMENTS (15 credits) Courses are available in-person, remote and/or online, varying by semester and course.

- PHCO 0502 - Principles and Methods of Epidemiology (3 cr.)
- PHCO 0503 - Introduction to Environmental Health (3 cr.)
- ENOH 0594 - Environmental and Occupational Toxicology (3 cr.)
- ENOH 0656 - Environmental Risk Assessment (3 cr.)
- ENOH 0699 - Principles of Industrial Hygiene (3 cr.)

Graduates of CEPH-accredited schools and programs of public health may transfer up to six (6) credits towards a certificate program if earned within the past seven years with a grade of B or better and are deemed appropriate by the respective Certificate Program Coordinator.
